Age: 27
Profession: Comic artist

"Design is my passion!"

Details(story)

Garth Wayne is a 27 year old artist from New York. He is a full-time self-employed comic artist and a part-time 3D modeller. He likes to draw and create comics, blog about his life and experiences, taking pictures of various subjects, and does 3D modelling in his spare time. Because of his job and hobbies, Garth owns a Macbook and carries it with him everywhere he goes. He is highly proficient with it, and knows his way around the software. He has also developed his personal site using Wordpress. He also does his 3D modelling and comics using a sketch pad and stylus. Through his use of his macbook over the years, it has become slow and it crashes often, which annoys Garth. He needs to buy a new one, but doesn't have the money to afford a new one.

Garth has attended the Academy of Art in New York, where he developed his artistic style over the 4 years he attended. He has taken what he has learned and uses it for his comic and his modelling, which he wants to use to earn a position either at Disney or Pixar.

Garth also really loves designing every aspect of his life, and he constantly changes them. From his apartment, to his clothes, to the layout of the apps on his phone, he changes the designs to keep his creative juices flowing.
